Van Lanschot Kempen named best private bank in the Netherlands in 2024

Amsterdam/'s-Hertogenbosch, the Netherlands, 8 November 2024

Van Lanschot Kempen has been awarded the title of Best Private Bank in the Netherlands in 2024. This was announced yesterday, during the annual Global Private Banking Awards organised by Professional Wealth Management and The Banker - both part of the Financial Times.

The jury was particularly impressed by the high appreciation from clients. The growth that Van Lanschot Kempen has managed to achieve, based on the net inflow of new invested assets in private banking, was also considered impressive. This confirms the consistent execution of our growth strategy. The jury report also praised the progress that we have made as a sustainable wealth manager, as well as our ambition to be a diverse and inclusive employer.

Wendy Winkelhuijzen, Member of the Management Board of Van Lanschot Kempen, responsible for Private Banking Netherlands: “The recognition that this award signifies, fills us with great pride. Every day, we at Van Lanschot Kempen are ready to assist our clients and provide them with advice on all possible wealth management issues. By putting ourselves in their position and understanding their needs, we are able to translate the opportunities and possibilities that we see into relevant and sustainable solutions. We aim to provide a highly personal service and our clients appreciate that. The fact that many of them recommend us to other business owners, friends and family members is the greatest compliment that they could give us. This award motivates us to persist with our unique approach.”
