PricewaterhouseCoopers signs contract with Unit 4 Agresso

Sliedrecht, the Netherlands, 11 December 2008

PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) and Unit 4 Agresso have signed a multi-year contract for the supply of integrated software that PwC will use to optimize further service that it provides to its clients. PwC will gradually introduce the software for the processing of clients' salary administrations, and the fully automated and integrated preparation of filing of tax returns, in respect of corporation tax, income tax and suchlike, will be implemented. This move is also connected to important developments concerning the Horizontal Supervision by the Inland Revenue Department, the concurrence of filing tax returns and statutory annual accounts, and the use of XBRL.

Total integration

PwC already uses Unit 4 AccountAnalyser for accounting checks and accounting analyses and now intends to use the entire retinue of Unit 4 Agresso Accountancy software products. "We believe in the power of total integration", says Luuk Harrewijn, a partner at PricewaterhouseCoopers, in explaining the choice. "We are convinced that the combination of Unit 4 Agresso's technology and our expert knowledge is a step that serves the best interests of our clients. It's important for our clients that we offer efficient and modern services and are able to avoid doublings up."

Herman de Jonge, director of Unit 4 Agresso Accountancy: "We are absolutely delighted that PricewaterhouseCoopers shares our approach and vision. At the same time it's also proof that we are well on the way towards the accounting sector's next efficiency coup. PwC is closely involved in the latest developments in the area of changing legislation and reporting requirements. Being able to make use of this knowledge is of great added value to us. It gives us extra opportunities to lead the way with our software developments."
